A colorful graphic titled "LEARN PANTOSAURUS' FIVE EASY RULES FOR STAYING SAFE". It features five pieces of underwear hanging on a line, each with a letter: P (Privates are private), A (Always remember your body belongs to you), N (No means no), T (Talk about secrets that upset you), and S (Speak up, someone can help). Each letter is accompanied by a short explanation. At the bottom, a yellow cartoon character named Pantasaurus is holding a sign that says "Remember all of these rules and they'll help you stay safe, just like Pantasaurus". There are also illustrations of a blue bird, a dog, and a house.

A green rectangular graphic with the text "Trust your gut." in large white letters. Above the text are icons for a smartphone (labeled '1') and an upward-pointing arrow (labeled '2'). Below the text are the contact details: "Contact our helpline on 0808 800 5000 or email help@nspcc.org.uk".

E-Safety

Even from a very young age, the children need to be aware of how to keep safe on the internet. This starts in our Nursery classes and continues throughout school.

If you have any questions regarding e-safety, please speak to your child's class teacher. Mrs Wallis, our Computing Subject Leader, will also happily speak to you and offer advice.

Please visit the parent information website for further information and support at <https://parentzone.org.uk/>

Our eSafety Top Tips!

1 People you don't know are strangers. They're not always who they say they are.

2 Be nice to people like you would on the playground.

A cartoon illustration of a boy and a girl holding hands. The boy is wearing a blue shirt and brown shorts, and the girl is wearing a blue shirt and a grey skirt.

3 Keep your personal information private.

A cartoon illustration of a blue computer monitor with a smiling face and arms, standing next to a smartphone.

4 If you ever get that 'uh oh' feeling, tell a grown-up you trust.

A cartoon illustration of a man and a woman standing together. The man is wearing a white shirt and a tie, and the woman is wearing a blue dress.

The Lincolnshire Police Prevent - Raising awareness around the risk of radicalisation

The Lincolnshire Police Prevent team would like to reach out to parents / carers within the county to raise awareness around the risk of radicalisation among young people.

It can be hard to know what to do if you're worried someone close is expressing extreme views or hatred, which could lead to them harming themselves or others. Working with other organisations, the police protect vulnerable people from being exploited by extremists through a Home Office programme called Prevent.

Young people can be at a greater risk of being targeted by extremists and the internet has made it much easier for radicalisers to find and identify people who might be easily influenced.

In Lincolnshire, last year most of the cases referred to Prevent related to young people and one of the biggest concerns was online activity including the sharing of extremist information.

Friends and family are often the first to spot worrying changes taking place. These can be big or small changes that take place very quickly or over a longer period. Trust your instincts and if you're concerned seek advice.

ACT Early provides advice on the risks of radicalisation, spotting the signs and what to do if concerned. ACT Early | Prevent radicalisation <https://actearly.uk>
